

Dear FCC: Please leave Satellite Radio alone! I urge you all to reject the NAB petition 04-160. The broadcasters of America are trying to regulate market share, rather than providing consumer choice. Local FM radio has become so monotonous and homogenized, with virtually NO interesting content that, out of frustration I finally broke down and got XM Satellite Radio. Now I hear that, in a panic, rather than actually give listeners something worthy of their support, broadcast radio is trying to regulate the content of satellite radio. Please reject this boldfaced attempt to stifle competition, and by doing so, force the broadcasters to compete by actually providing content that will attract and keep listeners. I'd much rather listen to free FM radio then pay $120 a year for satellite, but until the terrestrial broadcasters give me something worthy of my support, I'll be listening to the huge variety of content on XM. Don't let the big broadcast industry tell me what I can hear on my Satellite channels.

Thank you for considering my comments.
